

THE EDITOR'S CORNER

A member has suggested that the editor's name and address should appear in every issue of the Bulletin for the convenience of members who may wish to write to him.

Actually, during the 45 months that the current editor has handled the Bulletin, there probably have been fewer than half a dozen issues in which the names and addresses of all the Club's officers have not appeared. The list is left out only on occasions when the Bulletin is pressed for space. Three of those occasions fell in recent months due to the long lists of new members that had to be published.

However, the member makes a good point, and anytime in the future when the whole list of officers can't be included, the editor will list his name and address under that of the secretary on the back page.

And speaking of the editor's address, he urgently needs to receive some Perfin articles from members for upcoming issues of the Bulletin. The cupboard is almost bare. If you have the data for an article, but don't want to write it yourself, send the data to the editor and he will attempt to put it in publication form. Also, the editor is always glad to receive items of interest for the Bulletin, be they Perfin or personal.

Vice President Dorothy Savage reports that she sent out only 15 Perfin Primers in May. The pace is slackening a bit, it seems, after the flood of new members we've had over the past few months.

Member C. Schoeps (#1315) reports the finding of Schermack Type III Perfin #37 on Scott #345 (5¢ blue). Information from other Club members who have other Perfin numbers on this issue would be greatly appreciated by Mr. Schoeps.

Your editor has just returned from a very enjoyable 4-day visit to CAPEX, during which he and his wife took a side trip to see Niagara Falls for the first time. The view from the Canadian side of the falls would certainly appear to be far superior to that from the U.S. side. The editor did not run into any of our Canadian members at the show, although several U.S. members were on hand while he was there. Two Perfins Club members - Barbara de Violini and your editor - were on the program at the APS Writers
